PRESENTS...

The

'59 Tiger

Dedication

We wish to dedicate this 1959 Tiger to the men who settled the town of Stanfield.

Because they had the vision to see the town as it could be and the courage and ambition to make their vision a reality, they were the pioneers that planned and made Stanfield.

May we have the ability and initiative to continue the work of our predecessors, for in our age we face many of the same problems.

Administration

Superintendent's Message

More frontiers to cross. The rugged men and women who settled the Oregon Country had the physical and emotional stamina to overcome the obstacles they faced in their struggle westward. Today's men and women face rugged frontiers in developing a society which can solve the problems of world-wide peace, American economic growth and emotional stability for the individual and his family. Americans today face tremendous problems requiring mental and social maturity. Young people must think harder in order to cross tomorrow's frontiers.

Subjects We Choose to Study

This must be an interesting speech. Look how alert everyone is!

The office practice class is learning how to use the telephone correctly.

What has the home economics class been discussing?

The physics class is trying to discover something. Wonder what it is?

The agriculture class have been on a little jaunt. Mr. Raynalds seems rather discouraged.

The geometry class seems hard at work; of course there are a few that have to goof off.

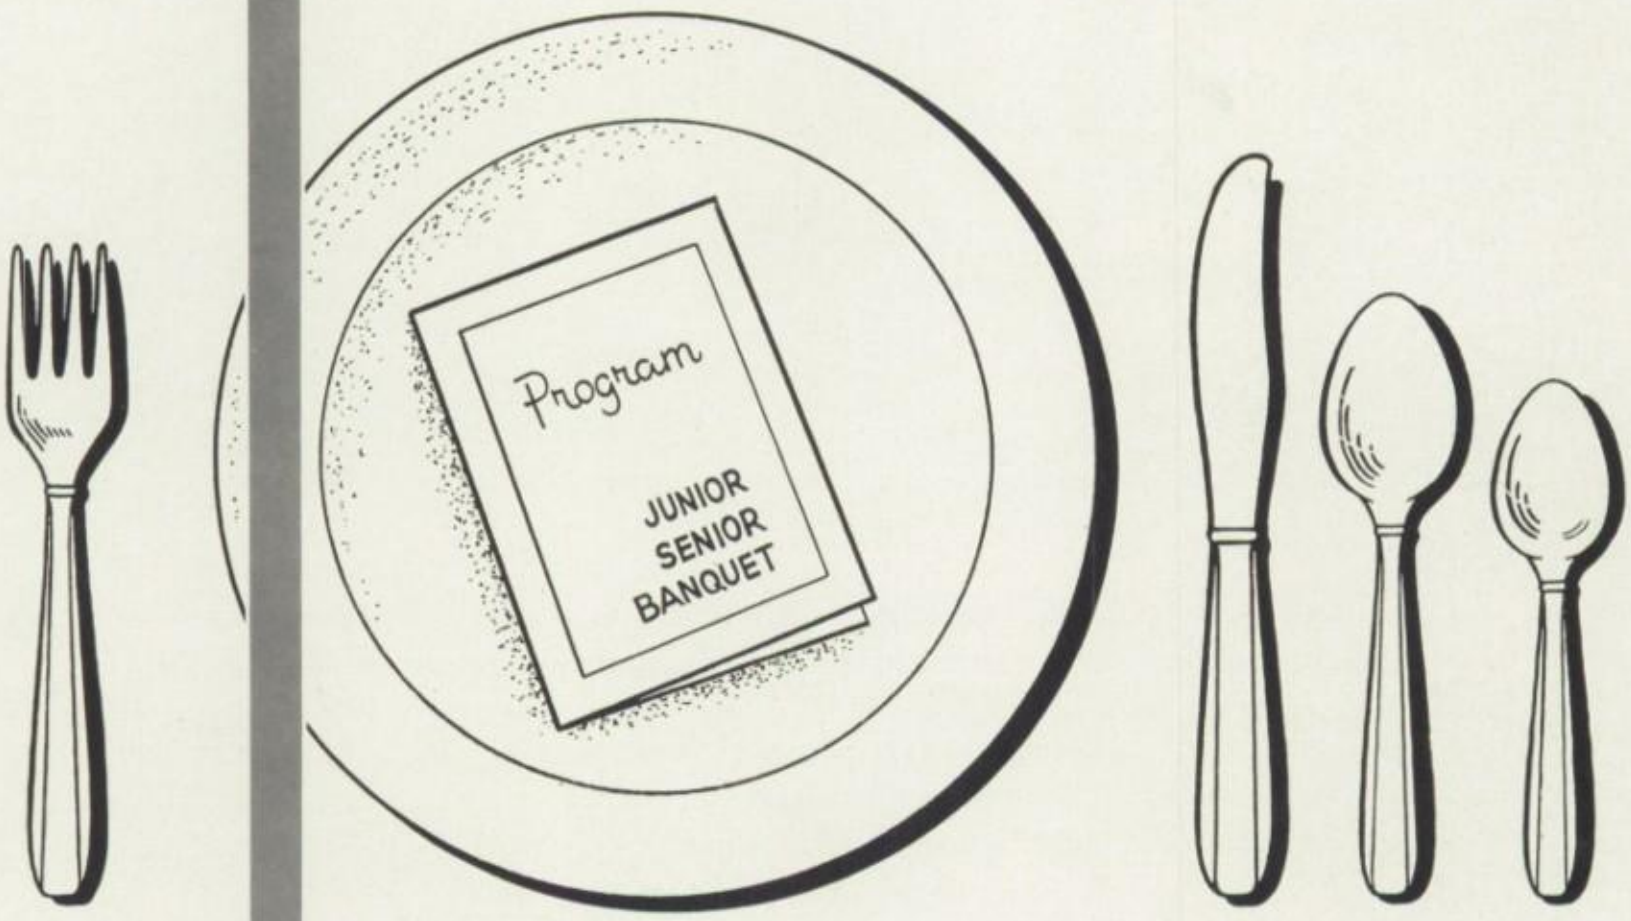
Juniors



In the planning of a successful settlement, one must include plans, buildings and other structures according to their plans; and then there must be schools to educate the children of the settlers. This was the first building in Stanfield that was built for the purpose of a schoolhouse. This building was later moved into town and is now the Presbyterian Church. None of the children in this picture have been identified. This picture is closely related to the high school juniors, they have completed two big steps in life and are preparing for the next year just as the settlers planned ahead when they built this schoolhouse.

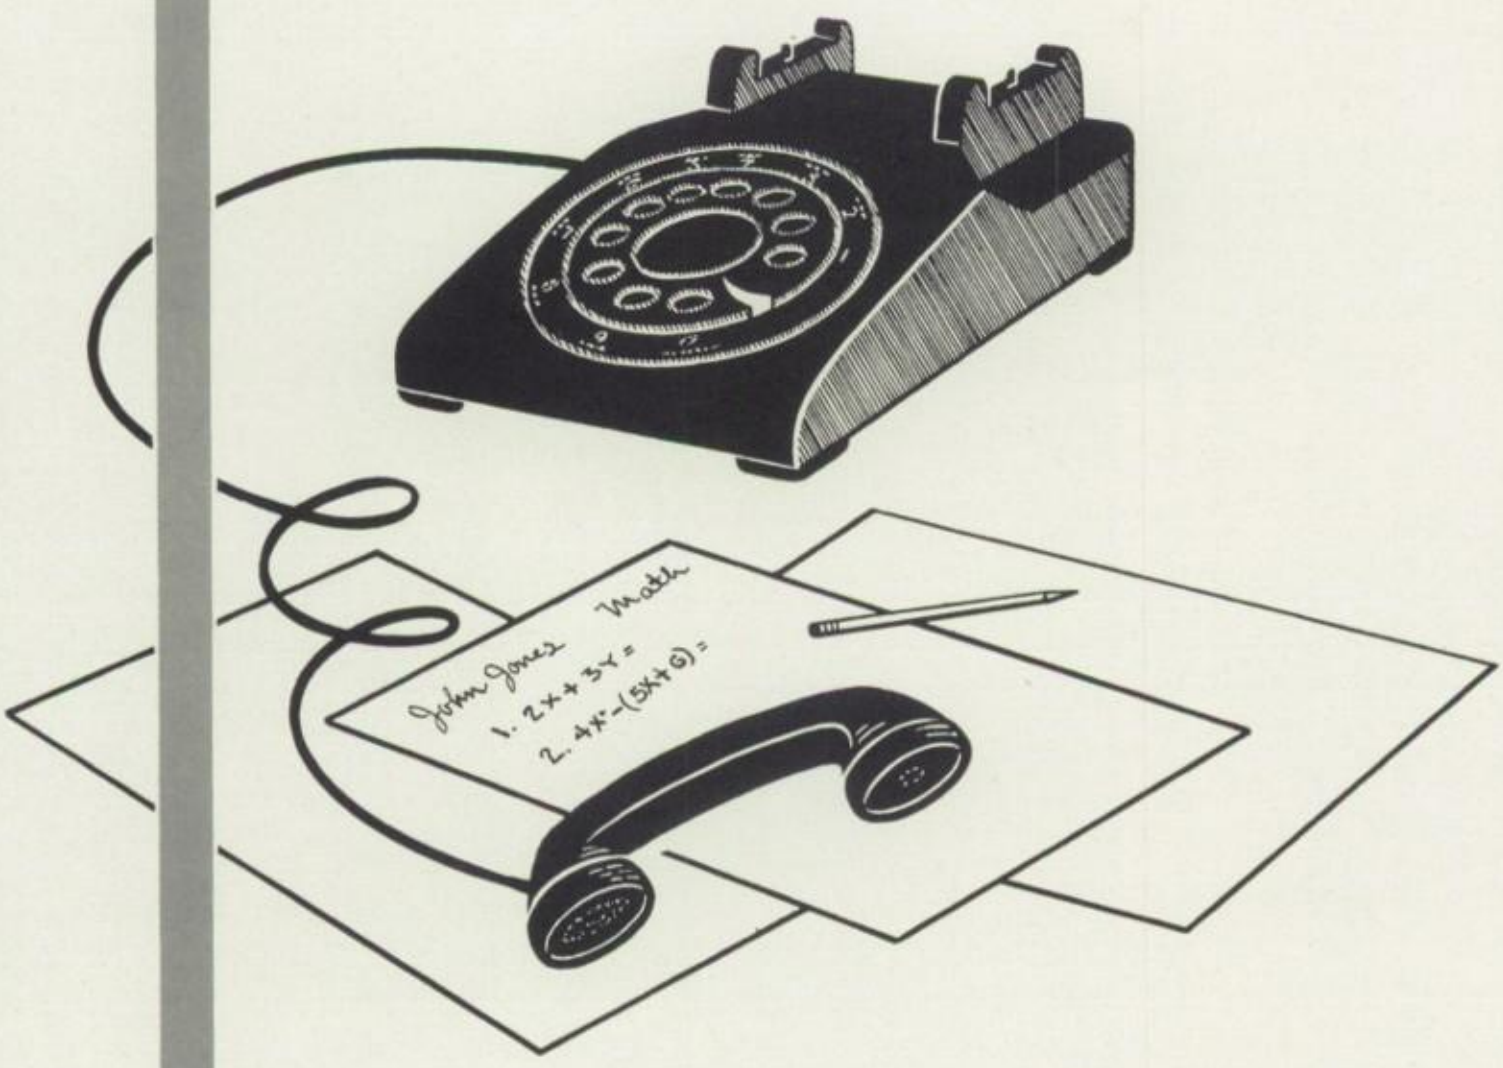
Sophomores



Stanfield, Oregon, Christmas Day, 1909, five months old. The town has begun the second step toward building a successful settlement. This picture shows how the town looked while it was laid out on the plan of the Foster Plat. If you look closely at the picture you will see the stone front buildings that are still standing and also still in use, at the corner of Main and Coe Avenue. All buildings in that block were to be constructed of stone, cement, or block. The people that put all their hard work into planning the way for this settlement deserve much credit, as do the Sophomores in high school. They have completed their first step in high school education and are willing and eager to begin working just as hard on their next big step in life.

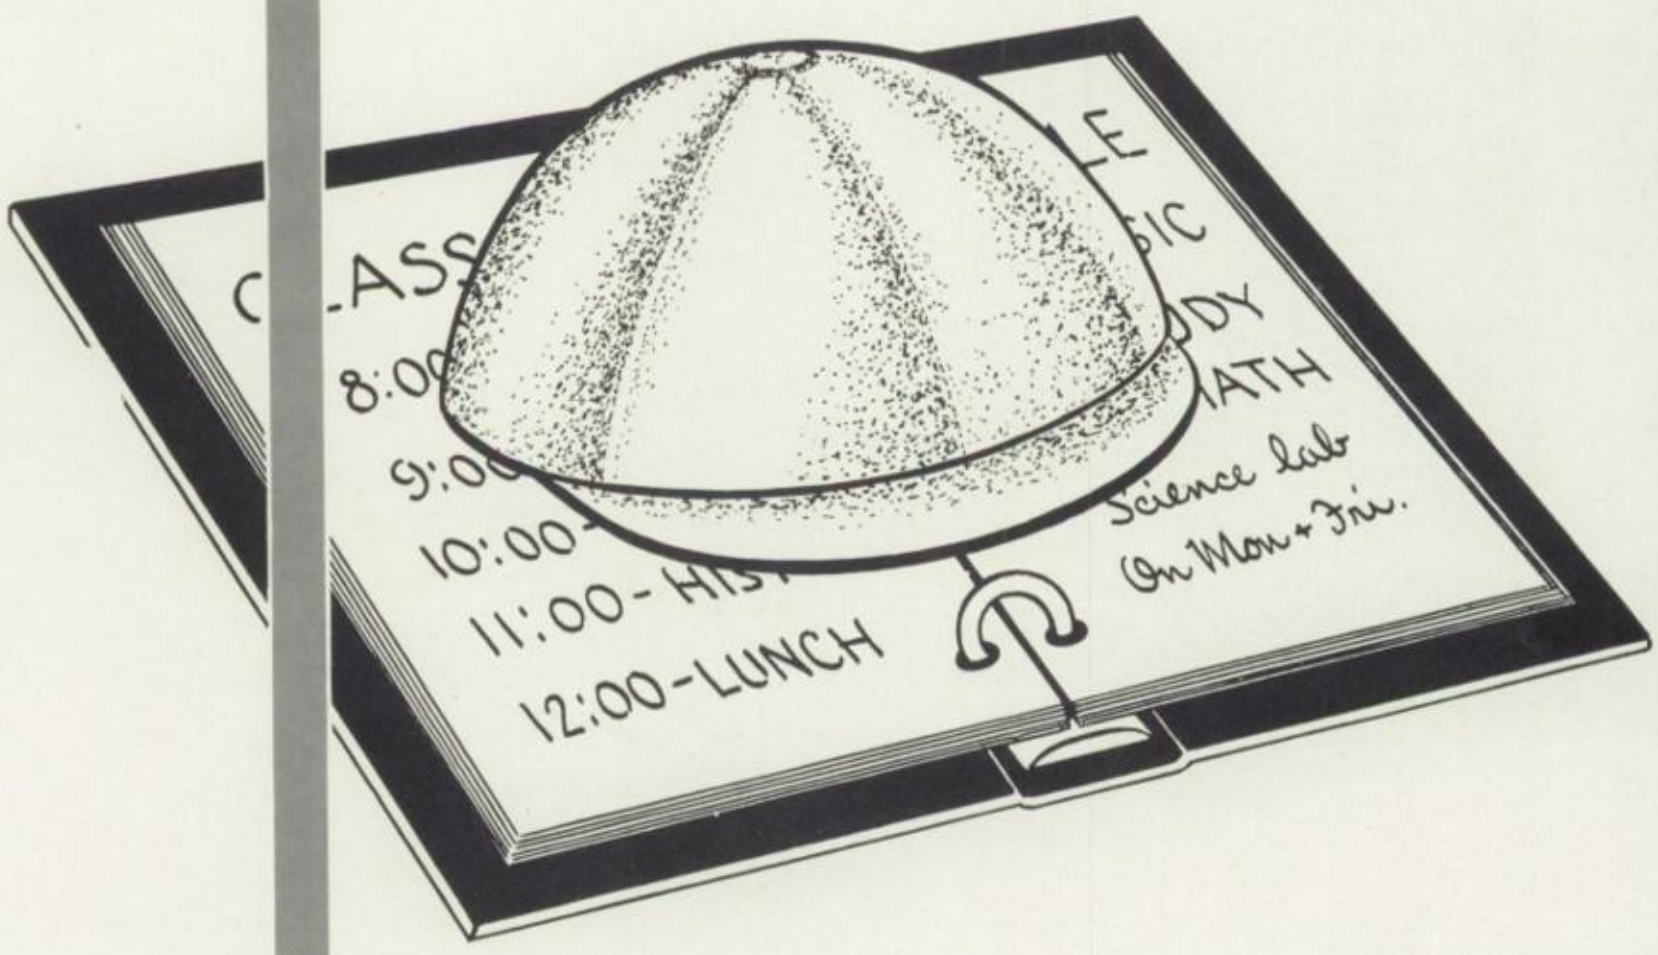
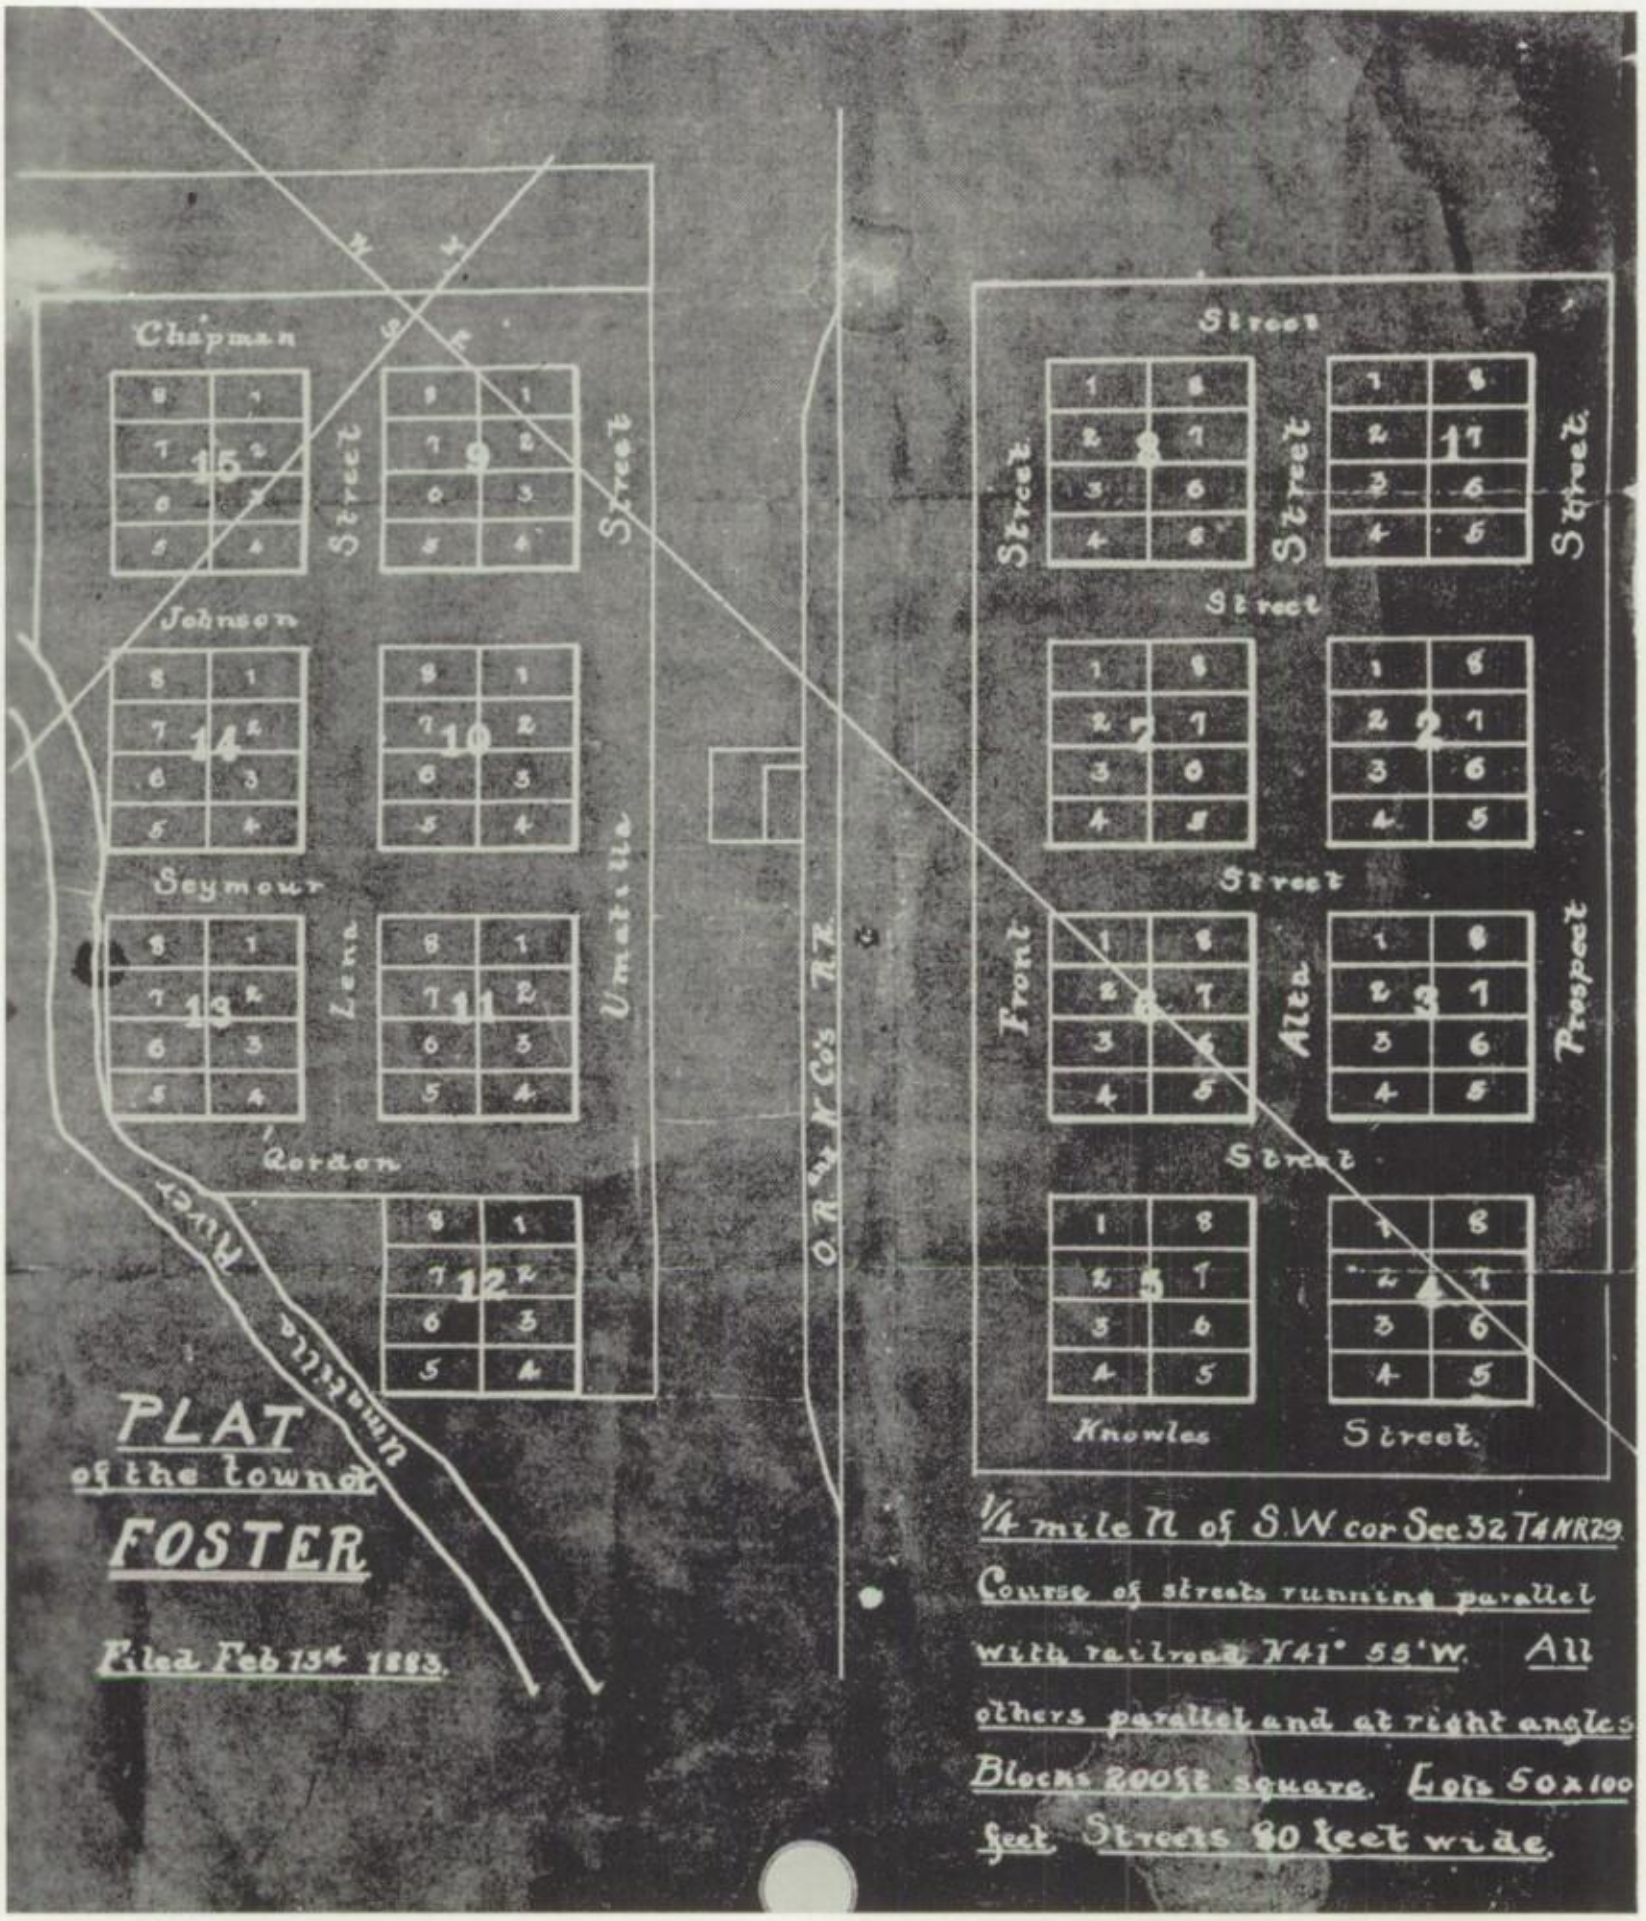
Freshmen





This is the plat of the town of Foster which is now known as Stanfield. This is to show where the town was meant to be, but didn't ever grow to this area. The Present town of Stanfield no longer exactly fits the plat, but Seymour Street as it is on the plat is now the street that connects the bridge to Coe Avenue. As the town grew it expanded to the Southwestern part and far beyond.

This Plat of Foster is the first attempt to plan a settlement for this community as the Freshmen are also symbolic of students making their first attempt to further their education, as the first big step.

Last year the lettermen at Stanfield got together and decided to reorganize our club with a new constitution, by laws, and add a purpose to the club. This was not all completed last year, but was done so at the beginning of this year. The name of our new club was to be "Order of the 'S'," colors are blue and gold, sweaters are blue with gold numerals and are to be worn only by the boys.

Our club has been very active this year as they took a trip to Corvallis to a college football game between Oregon State and California, helped the Girls' League collect old clothes for the United Nations clothing drive, and organized a letterman's day, which was to be on Friday of each week when the boys must wear their sweaters to school.

Our young club hopes to improve as each year comes.
